

“Our logistics process is easy to follow in the back office. We no longer look for the causes; instead, we take our cues from the consequences.”

Real-time information about your products and services saves time and helps avoid confusion. Prices, stock levels, product lines, agreements with suppliers and customers: you want to make sound promises, to uphold your agreements and to be sure that the information in circulation is correct.

An advanced information system offers your employees and suppliers the certainty that they are making decisions based on up-to-date information. Your customers pay the right price.

Just like every other Exact Globe 2003 component, the logistics function is fully integrated with the back-office. Orders, receipts and deliveries are entered into the financial accounts in real-time.

Product and service management forms the foundation of your business. Information about availability, prices and product lines need to be accessible to your entire organization, across the board and up-to-the-minute. The Exact Globe 2003 central database offers that guarantee.

- All stakeholders work in the same database for logistics, financial and stock accounts.
- Still only a single source for cost and sales prices, versions, promotions and special offers.
- Link documentation, photos and other files to the product card.
- Compile packages to generate additional sales.
- Direct access from the product card to statistical and analytical functions.
- Export price lists and product ranges to MS Excel for further calculation and analysis.

Publish your catalog online to provide customers and suppliers with insight into your products and services. With ease you create target groups, which are subsequently linked to data, products and packages. This enables you to plan promotions in a timely manner and monitor them closely.

- Communicate clearly with your target groups about your products, prices and special offers.
- Link products, prices and packages to dates for sponsoring limited time offers.
- Online sales are processed directly in the back office.

Exact Globe 2003 for Logistics

- All departments work with a single integrated information system
- Logistics processes directly linked to financial accounts
- Manage multiple product lines, warehouses and locations with a single system
- Work closely with your supply chain partners (CRM, SCM)
- Publish your catalog in real-time on Internet and in portals
- Centrally update Bills of Material, price lists, special offers and price agreements
- Advanced functions for bar coding and tracking & tracing
- Forecasting based on current user data
- Create security levels, roles and rights for employees
- Define your own performance indicators for management information

“Our prices are clear to all stakeholders: sales force, business partners and individual customers.”

The article mutations card contains all the changes in the inventory of articles.

The main purchase scheme shows you when the inventory is scheduled to be replenished.

Stock management is linked in real-time to your purchasing, sales and schedule. As a result, the quality of your forecasting is enhanced. Your purchasing and sales employees are aware of the current stock levels, which are updated to reflect deliveries, orders and finished production.

- Deliveries (actual numbers) and shipments are automatically processed in the logistic and financial accounts.
- Use roles and rights to transmit amended information.
- Support by third parties for storage and distribution.
- Use advanced functions for internal use, inter-branch transfers and intermediate warehouse support.
- Use the Exact Software Development Kit (SDK) to set up a link with your Warehouse Management System.

Management information enables you to quickly see the status of your logistics processes. Branches rely on different information when making decisions. By defining indicators, you decide the steering information with which the system will provide you.

- Compile initial versions of reports that can easily be updated later.
- Release integrated and detailed ABC analyses on categories such as turnover, margin, products, target groups and suppliers.
- Use the Excel Add-in to generate new overviews and graphics.

Exact Globe 2003 automates your entire logistics process, including stock management at multiple locations and financial accounts. Company information is in real-time and centrally available. It increases the quality of your planning and management information, while reducing costs and the number of steps required.
